Noble Room, Hendricks Chapel

Last year's 20th anniversary of Pan Am Flight 103 saw a return to campus of many Fall 1988 London alumni. Their expression of continuing love and devotion of their fellow students lost in the tragedy propels this current exhibition.

This year the University Archives decided to create an exhibition that focuses not on the tragedy or aftermath of Pan Am Flight 103 but rather the joy and camaraderie of the time the SU students spent with their fellow students in London that year. The panels seek to accentuate the life that was lived, not the tragedy that followed. No one is personally identified as a victim or a survivor. They all appear as a group, the way they were then and still are in our collective minds and hearts.

About 250 demonstrators gathered at the Dag-hammarskjold Plaza in New York City.
